Quest Village Ground Breaking
An apartment-style community for independent adults with developmental disabilities

Orlando, Florida (February 8, 2017) – Quest, Inc., a tax-exempt organization serving individuals with developmental disabilities throughout Orlando and Tampa, announced today that the organization has officially broken ground on Quest Village, an affordable, apartment community for independent adults with developmental disabilities.

Quest Village will contain 48 one-bedroom/one-bathroom units and a Community Center. Located on Woodbury Road near the Waterford Lakes Town Center area in east Orange County, Florida, the development will provide easy access to employment, entertainment, education, and other community activities and services.

“Quest Village is a transformational project for the developmentally disabled community and for the community at large,” said John R. Gill, President and CEO, Quest, Inc. “The individuals served by Quest Village will be able to experience life in a fashion so many of us take for granted.”

Quest Village is owned by Quest Village GP, LLC., a partnership composed of Alden Torch Financial and Quest, Inc. Quest Village is being developed through a partnership composed of Quest Village Developer, LLC., and The Vestcor Companies of Jacksonville, Florida.

Significant support has been provided by Florida Housing Finance Corp., Edyth Bush Charitable Foundation, Robins Nest and The Cherney Family Foundation, and Stearns Weaver Miller. Other parties interested in investing in Quest Village can contact info@questinc.org.

Quest Village is expected to open in Winter 2017.
